ABOUT

The objective of the data in this presentation is to help the public understand the electoral “lay of the land” in Houston, Texas, by answering three questions:

- 1) What percent of registered voters in Houston are Spanish, Asian, or non-Spanish/non-Asian surname?
- 2) What percent of voters in Houston are Spanish, Asian, or non-Spanish/non-Asian surname?
- 3) Does the voter participation of Spanish, Asian, or non-Spanish/non-Asian surname vary in municipal, midterm or presidential elections?

The presentation includes eleven tables. The first two tables provide the demographics and estimated registered voters. The following four tables provide the percent of registered voters and voters comprised by each age group; and, they also provides the voter turnout for all voters, Spanish-surnames, Asian-surnames, and non-Spanish/non-Asian surnames. The voting and registration percentages on these tables show which age groups are underperforming or overperforming. For example, the percent of the vote the following age groups comprise, 18-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39 and 40-44 is lower than the number of registered voters they comprised.

The seventh to eleventh tables provide the number of registered voters and voters comprised by each age group for one election year. The tables also provide the percent of registered voters and voters each age group comprised for one election year. For example, the table for the 2022 November election shows that, individuals with Spanish-surnames comprised 38% of the registered voters and 36% of the voters among 18–24-year-olds. Overall, in the 2022 midterm election, individuals with Spanish surnames only comprised 24% of the registered voters and 18% of the voters.

The estimated figures on the provided tables are sorted by age group categories commonly used in exit polls and Census population estimates. The figures are based on queries performed on registered voters and voters lists for the Houston’s 2015, 2018, 2019, 2020 and 2022 November elections and the September 2023 voter roll using Census Spanish and Asian surname glossaries. This analysis only includes Harris County voting precincts. It should be noted that 98% of the Houston electorate resides in Harris County. Questions about this presentation may be addressed to hectordeleon@hectordeleon.com.

In all, the data may also place perspective to baseless storylines that may exist about voting and registration.
